Declares That He Was Very Much in Earnest As to Charleston's Democracy.

Charleston, August 4 .- On the publication recently of Senator Tillman's letters pronouncing against the candidacy of Mr. George F. Von Kolnitz for the State Senate from Charleston county, the question was raised as to whether Tillman thought Von Kolnitz should be barred from the primary or whether he should be admitted to run and be defeated by Democratic votes.

It was said that a protest might be filed against the candidacy and it was reported by Tue Evening Post's Columbia correspondent that some members of the State committee would vote to sustain such a protest and exclude Von Kolnitz from the primary. To ascertain Senator Till man's attitude exactly, the editor of The Evening Post asked him for a definite expression on the essential point which had been made. The following answer was received from the senator today:

Trenton, S. C., Aug. 2, 1902. Thos. R. Waring, Esq., Charleston, S. C.

Dear Sir: I have your letter of July 30, asking whether I am of the opinion that Mr. Von Kolnitz "should be denied entry to the Democratic primary on the score of this Republican disposition in 1896, or whether he should be allowed to run in the primary but should be defeated by Democratic votes for presuming to aspire to office so soon after his affiliation with the Republicans."

When the State Democratic convention met in May this whole subject was carefully considered by the committee of which I was chairman In view of the peculiar conditions existing in South Carolina, it was unanimously agreed that there would be no pledge exacted of any candidate in the Democratic primary other that the one which we have had all along, except for candidates for congress and the United States senate. It was thought that the fullest freedom of action should be permitted and for that reason I have never considered for a moment the propriety of denying Mr Von Kolnitz the right to run, just as Cunningham or Ensor or Geo. W. Murray might run if they would file their pledges.

My, attitude in the matter is easily understood if it is remembered that I am a member of the national com mittee for this State, charged with the duty of watching for the interest of the party. Had I not been national committeeman, I would not have tackled McLaurin at Gaffney.

The election to the State senate of Mr Von Kolnitz with or without opposition would indicate to my mind that a majority of the citizens of Charleston are no longer Democrats, and I should be bound to take steps to see that the Republicans who elected him were barred from the Democratic primaries in the future and should not be recognized in the next Democratic State convention. We have got to draw the line some where and at some time, and we had just as well do it now as any other.

En passaut, allow me to say: The editor of The Post may be a better Democrat than I am, in his own opinion, but he would not find many people in South Carolina who would the of free silver as ever. agree with him in saying so.

The voting for McKinley in 1896 by gold Democrats was an act of war on the Democratic party, and so far as I am concerned such Democrats are Republicans, and ought to the people to love their government. be ashamed to claim to be anything else; but when, in addition to voting, there was service under the Republican committee, as in the case of Mr. Von Kolnitz, and an effort to get office, the Democats of the State have a right to expect the people of Charleston to repudiate any such Democracy, and if they fail to do so, without the possibility of a doubt tain. the other Democrats of the State will repudiate them and cease to affiliate do you serve here?" she asked. with them, about my not being in earnest about this matter, and that if Charleston elects Von Kolnitz, I "could not afford to neglect her interests." I never was more serious in my life than when I said what I repeat now, that if Charleston is a Republican city I will leave the Republicans to Take care of it in national legislation.

I represent the entire people of South Carolina and have tried to unrivaled for Throat and Lung disdo my duty by all of them, but there Trial bottles free at all druggist.

is a difference between working with zeal and earnestness and allowing things to drift. If the people of Charleston are so indifferent or have undergone a change of heart, they should have the mauhood and courage to come out in their true colors. If they will organize a Republican party in the city and capture it like brave men, it would make no difference to me, but to sneak around with Democratic colors on and aid the Republican party is too low a type of manhood for my liking.

Yours truly,

B. R. Tillman.

BRYAN NOT A CANDIDATE He Thinks a Private Citizen Has Greater Honor than a King.

On Saturday afternoon, in the presence of an audience of 4,000 persons assembled in the amphitheatre of the Mountain Lake Park Chautauquean Association, Md., Wm. Jennings Bryan discussed the problems of government. Mr. Bryan prefaced his address, which was of two hours duration, with a denial that he will again seek to become the national standard bearer of the Democratic party, his denial being contained in

"I hope you will give me credit for the possession of a higher ambition than to be satisfied with the office of President of the United States. am too democratic to covert an ambition that only a few in our genera tion can share. I prefer the honor of being a private citizen, an honor greator than that of a king."

was the purpose to deal with the moral phase of the subject. He declared that the partisan discussion of the tariff, free silver, the trusts and imperialism had been dragged down by campaign orators into the mire of dollars and cents. In civilization, which Mr. Bryan defined as the harmonious development of the human race, morally, mentally and physically, he regarded the cultivation of the moral element as a paramount issue and declared that history supported his contention that moral decay had preceded the ruin of every nation that had fallen. "A nation," said Mr. Bryan, "is strong only in proportion to its moral excellence." He declared that the present administration had developed a tendency to amend God's boly ordinances, "Thou shalt not steal," "Thou shalt not kill," "Thou shalt not covet," etc., by adding an apologetic clause, "save when done on a very

"That's not so improbable," remarked a gentleman sitting at the other end of the table. Then followed the question that has been so

"I'll tell you an experience and true," said the gentleman who didu': ing over a piece of farm land. I had of safety and shelter for me was the large barn. Here I went and carefully fastened the door, as the storm beat with violence on the building. While waiting for the rain to subside, I was startled to espy some disance from me, reclining near on a rafter, a large specimen of the black wardly made the proposition that if he did not advance at me, I certainly and is sold by would not molest him. Still I continued to watch the reptile and the unusual rotundity of its body near the center was something out of the ordinary. I carefully observed the body and am sure that in the snake's stomach were five hen eggs. There was a hen nest in the barn also, and a later look at it developed the fact that all the eggs were gone."

"How in the world could the snake digest the eggs?" was ask

"I was just coming to that," resumed the gentleman. "I kept watching the snake and after the storm the sun came out. The snake glided out of the barn and out into the grass, where there is a row of shrub bushes. He complacently wound himself about a bush and in so doing would force his body so tightly to the shrub as to crush the eggs one by one. It appeared from the distance at which I was watching that each time an egg was crushed a satisfactory sparkle was emitted from his sinister eyes."

The above portrait is that of Countess Mogelstud, of Chicago, Ill., whose gratitude for the benefit received from the use of Dr. Miles' Nervine prompted her to make this statement:

"It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to the very excellent merits of Dr. Miles' Nervine. Although I am past 80 years of age I find it soothes the tired brain, quiets the irritated nerves and insures restful sleep. I never feel contented without a bottle of it in the house."
